

Alaska's Northern Lights Discover the Aurora Borealis

March 21 -28, 2027

The Aurora Borealis, or Northern Lights, 2027 season is expected to offer exceptional viewing opportunities as solar activity remains strong! Alaska is one of the best places on earth to see the Northern Lights. When the conditions are right, colorful bands of light in shades of green, yellow, white and purple dance in the dark night sky and this natural phenomenon is an unforgettable experience! Daniel's is heading to Alaska to chase those Northern Lights, so join us for this once in a lifetime winter tour. Our early morning flight from Atlanta takes us to Fairbanks with a 2-night stay at traditional Alaska style lodging along the Chena River. Fairbanks is the largest city in Alaska's interior and has a prime location under the auroral oval. During ideal viewing conditions, the Aurora Borealis may make an appearance over the Riverfront Deck, and the hotel will provide a wake-up call so we don't miss it! The far-north latitude of Fairbanks makes it one of the best places on Earth to experience the magic of winter. We explore Fairbanks on our private coach including a visit to one of the top rated things to do in Fairbanks...a guided natural history walking tour with Reindeer in the boreal forest. Watch the Reindeer leap and bound among the trees or stroll lazily alongside our group. Learn their names and hear stories about their shenanigans. We stop at the Trans-Alaska Pipeline Overlook and see part of the 800-mile pipeline that transports crude oil from Prudhoe Bay on Alaska's North Slope to the port of Valdez. See the cultural demonstrations & exhibits at the Morris Thompson Cultural & Visitors Center and learn about relationship between the Native People & the environment of interior Alaska. ICE ALASKA, the annual Ice Art and Competition event produced by the World ICE Association each winter from mid-February through the end of March in Fairbanks. The finest sculptors from around the world compete in this challenging prestigious ice sculpting competition. We will visit the spectacular display of the sculpted pieces.

Chena Hot Springs is world renowned for being one of the best places on Earth to see the northern lights. This remote property is located under the most active band of northern lights and is away from the light pollution of city lights. Our private motorcoach delivers our group to Chena Hot Springs for a 2-night stay in the quaint Alaska Lodge located near the Hot Springs, where you have an unlimited pass to swim and soak. The recorded history of the Hot Springs dates back to the early 1900's when weary gold miners discovered that soaking in the "oh-so-warm" waters helped their aching bodies. Dog Sledding is an integral part of life in remote areas of Alaska during the winter. Visit the sled dogs at the Chena Hot Springs Kennel before setting out on an included Dog Sledding adventure on the Chena Hot Springs trail. You can also choose to sign up for other optional activities during your free time such as snowmobiling or ice fishing. The pinnacle of Aurora viewing opportunities are in store for us as we make our way to the top of Charlie Dome Mountain one night in special snow-going vehicles where we wait for the Aurora in special heated yurts. The dark skies overhead dance with the Northern Lights when conditions are right! A tour highlight includes an excursion on the spectacular Aurora Winter Train from Fairbanks to Talkeetna for a once in a lifetime experience crossing the quiet serenity of pristine snow. Enjoy the winter wonderland of Alaska's backcountry from the comfort of a warm railcar, complete with comfortable seats, large picture windows and meals available for purchase in the dining car. On a clear day, a spectacular view of Denali/Mt McKinley rises into view above the Susitna River. Anywhere along the tracks, a watchful eye may be rewarded with the sight of a moose in the wild. The train arrives at Talkeetna in the afternoon for a 2-night stay at the beautiful Talkeetna Alaskan Lodge in Mountain View rooms. On a clear day, the Lodge offers majestic views of the tallest peak in North America, Denali/Mt. McKinley. Inside, there's a crackling fire in a giant river rock fireplace. Enjoy a day at leisure to enjoy the beautiful lodge or take the hotel shuttle on the short ride into the quirky town of Talkeetna and browse the unique gift shops. If you want more adventure in Talkeetna, you can set up an optional excursion on your free day and fly over the Alaska Range for some spectacular winter views of the frozen rivers and landscapes below. Our return flight from Anchorage on Sunday afternoon bring us back to Georgia early on Monday morning.

What is the Winter like in Alaska?

The subarctic environment is surprisingly agreeable with low humidity, little precipitation, and almost no wind. Optional winter activities are plentiful and available throughout the tour at your discretion, so you can be out in the weather a little or a lot based on your choice of optional activities. Clothing essentials include a winter parka, snow/ski pants, warm socks, waterproof snow boots, ice cleats for boots, scarf, face covering, hat that covers ears, gloves or mittens, long johns/base layer. The average daylight hours during the time we visit is approximately 11 hours, the average snowfall in March is 5", and the average temperature is 25 degrees.

All planned Aurora viewing activities have outdoor viewing areas and indoor viewing areas available for your comfort. We can't guarantee that you will see the Aurora Borealis. Weather can affect viewing, Auroral intensity varies from night to night and throughout the night. The best viewing tends to be late evening to early morning hours, from 10PM-3AM, so be prepared to stay up so you can see the show if it comes out. We will have some late mornings so you can catch up on rest.
